

Amplify your tools with body scanning Medical Intuition: Foundation Level

... training health professionals since 2000

"The human body has always been a miracle of creation. Discover the miracle of insight it can provide ... if we can only follow."

Lori Wilson, 2000

Total Body Intuition™, commonly referred to as medical intuition, is a tool of supplementary insight. It traces the nature and roots of conditions that have manifested themselves in physical discomfort and disease within a client's unique energy field.

According to Lori Wilson's school of thought, in medical intuition there is only one expert, the client's body. The role of a medical intuition practitioner is to pay attention to the body without censoring, questioning, analyzing or bringing any preconceived frames of reference. This work is particularly helpful for providing information regarding conditions that may have eluded traditional methods of diagnosis or comprehension.

This training presents medical intuition neither as a diagnostic tool nor a healing modality. Rather we teach it as a tool that provides a portrait of what is going on in a client's body. As the body is scanned in a systematic fashion, information comes to the forefront that may be physical, mental, emotional, spiritual or environmental. This impeccable art of paying attention does not apply preconceived "maps" of the energy field or presume the need to "fix".

The success of practitioners' ability to serve with Total Body Intuition™ depends on the degree to which they can respectfully pay attention to the body of their unique client. This is an incredibly useful skill that is quickly gaining international recognition. Training in this style of body scanning offers the best combination of in-class instruction and practical experience to ensure practitioner competency.

A Total Body Intuition™ practitioner does not diagnose or offer healing recommendations. It is not a replacement for competent medical or holistic care. Practitioners may occasionally receive requests and information regarding certain healing modalities from the client's body which they then relay uncensored, to the client. The client may choose to bring the body's information to their healing team. Some practitioners are also trained in other healing modalities and may decide to combine the information gained from a Total Body Intuition™ medical intuition scan with their other healing modalities. Often, simply knowing what is going on is incredibly helpful in itself.

A new field, an old art

While this field of study is relatively new, the ability to intuitively scan or sense what is going on within another's physical body is not new at all. Many healing practitioners, intuitives, medical intuitives, psychics, channellers and people in general have been "tuning in" for centuries to gain insight to what is going on within themselves and others. For example, most parents can tune in, at some level, to their children when something is not quite right. They may simply not have applied themselves to more in-depth focusing in a systematic fashion. This clear, precise methodology for accessing information makes Total Body Intuition™ an extremely valuable skill for both the public and professionals.

Research and Professional Ethics

Inner Access 101 has always stressed professional ethics and standards within this field. Being able to "look inside" a person's energy field, body and life is a sacred privilege done only upon request. Recently we have added research tools that will provide analysis regarding the scan being conducted in class. Our goal is to provide research and statistical analysis to a field that is highly "invisible", subjective and often considered difficult to quantify. We continue to network with other scientists who are interested in applying the same professional ethics and research standards to this work. In doing so, we hope to bring further credibility to this exciting tool of medical intuition as a supplementary service for clients and their healing teams.

Foundation Level Content:

- Defining your role & posture as a medical intuition practitioner.
- Defining what Total Body Intuition™ is and what it is not.
- The art of following & attending.
- How to recognize & facilitate dialogue with the body and other players. Tools of tracking, tracing & unwinding to root causes.
- The scanning sequence in Medical Intuition: Lori Wilson's Total Body Intuition™:
 - 1) Broadcast
 - 2) Head to Toe
 - 3) Organs & Systems
- How to do scans: in person, long distance, written, spoken, with those who are not conscious or mentally, present & children.
- Awareness of how the client's body will give you information in its own "language" and orientation in a clear, appropriate fashion for the client to understand.
- Different styles of receiving, processing information and how to personalize your style.
- Ways information can be relayed to you (ie. stories, words, images, sensations, movies, snapshots, emotions, scents, tastes, x-rays, ultra-sounds & exploratory viewings).
- Understanding how "fixing" or "helping" can actually interfere with medical intuition and what to do instead.
- Basic physiology: overview of anatomy/physiology versus using it as a "map" or paradigm.
- Distinguishing unique energies of: pain, joy, wounds, injury, confusion, strength, endurance, fatigue, virus, bacteria, parasite, specific disease conditions, death, infection, cysts and more.
- Discussing professional ethics, boundaries & accountability.
- Networking, colleague resources and referrals & self support.
- How to "source" where the information received is actually coming from.
- How to track overlays, circuits, miasms, inner child & past life issues and shed light on current relevance.
- Promotion and marketing, clarity of services offered & not offered, education. Resources and training for further study.
- How to distinguish between conditions that actually manifest in your client's body versus "overlays" of others that they may simply be "wearing" in their field.
- How to interview body while holding body "on screen" once the body scan is complete. How to dialogue with the various "maps" or modalities of treatment for support.

My colleagues call weekly for short "tune-ins" with their client's permission. I am honored to be able to help in this detailed way. B.N. Willoughby, OH

I knew we could have x-ray eyes. The training added so much structure and ethical considerations on top of this that I am still blinking as to how straight forward medical intuition really is. R.B. Cambridge, ON

I have worked for 2 years now after my MI training. It really does get easier with practice. It has become the busiest part of my work. Thanks for opening the doors. D.W. Rockville, VA

Sacramento, California, USA Residential Modules
